

Ode to Tanaquil Le Clercq

Smiling through my own memories of painful excitement your wide eyes stare and narrow like a lost forest of childhood stolen from gypsies two eyes that are the sunset of two knees

two wrists

two minds and the extended philosophical column, when they conducted the dialogues in distant Athens, rests on your two ribbon-wrapped hearts, white credibly agile

flashing

scimitars of a city-state where in the innocence of my watching had those ribbons become entangled dragging me upward into lilac-colored ozone where I gasped and you continued to smile as you dropped the bloody scarf of my life from way up there, my neck hurt you were always changing into something else and always will be always plumage, perfection's broken heart, wings and wide eyes in which everything you do repeats yourself simultaneously and simply as a window "gives" on something it seems sometimes as if you were only breathing and everything happened around you because when you disappeared in the wings nothing was there but the motion of some extraordinary happening I hadn't understood the superb arc of a question, of a decision about death because you are beautiful you are hunted and with the courage of a vase you refuse to become a deer or tree and the world holds its breath to see if you are there, and safe are you?
